Love in all things

ENTRANCE ANTIPHON:

The merciful love of the Lord fills the earth;
by the word of the Lord the heavens were made, alleluia.

FIRST READING: Acts 2:14,36-41

RESPONSORIAL PSALM:

The Lord is my shepherd; there is nothing I shall want.

SECOND READING: 1 Peter 2:20-25

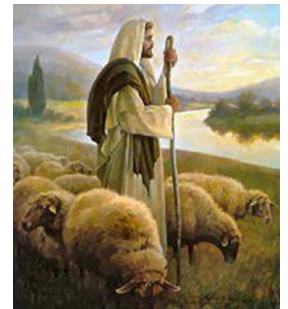

GOSPEL ACCLAMATION:

Alleluia, alleluia!
I am the good shepherd, says the Lord;
I know my sheep, and mine know me.
Alleluia!

GOSPEL: John 10:1-10

COMMUNION ANTIPHON:

The Good Shepherd has risen,
who laid down his life for his sheep and willingly died for his flock, alleluia.

REFLECTION: When a shepherd calls a sheep, the sheep recognises the voice and responds. Just as the shepherd knows the sheep, the sheep knows and trusts the shepherd. The shepherd guides and protects the sheep. We are not sheep but the Lord knows and loves each of us as individuals. We are not all the same to Jesus. He loves each of us personally and intimately. The Prophet Isaiah has a beautiful image of this when he writes, ‘I have called you by your name, you are mine, do not be afraid. You are precious to me and I love you.’ If a shepherd cares for his sheep with great love and devotion, how much more does Jesus love and care for each of us? Jesus does not force us to listen to his voice when he calls us. He invites us to follow him freely. The choice whether or not to respond is ours. We make take our time in responding, but Jesus will never stops calling us by our name.

Easter House Blessings

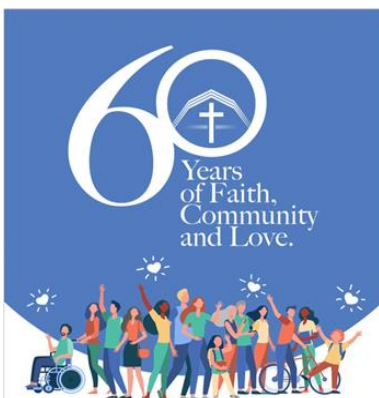

As Catholics we bless all sorts of things: our food, our cars, and our workplaces; but one of the most important things to bless are our homes. And we do this because it's a way of putting our life into the hands of the Lord. When we bless our home it's a reminder that Jesus came to live among us, and that we want him to find a home in our home.

So, for the next few Sundays I will leave a sign-up sheet at the back of the Church for you to write your details so I can get in touch and organise a house blessing over the coming months.

~ The Curate's Corner ~

In this last instalment on the Lord's Resurrection we will discuss what the Risen Lord did. And all the accounts agree on this: he appeared to them, he spoke to them, and he sat at table with them.

Jesus appeared to them

It's interesting to notice that the disciples at Emmaus, Mary Magdalene, and the disciples in the boat on the sea of Galilee all did not immediately recognise Jesus. And this is because while Jesus is the same man, he's also a new man. He comes through closed doors; he suddenly stands in their midst and suddenly goes away. He is not bound by the laws of space and time; he is free from the normal constraints of the body.

He spoke to them:

On that first day, Jesus calls out "Mary," and on the way to Emmaus he offers the two disciples the best homily they have ever heard. These are not just powerful moments of prayer, or spiritual awakenings, rather he reaches into their lives and communicates with them. He's not just a vision but a real person having a real conversation.

He ate and drank with them

Many of the Resurrection accounts recall Jesus eating and drinking with his disciples. This most obviously points to the quality of his risen body. He's not a ghost and can still do normal human things. But perhaps more importantly this points to the Eucharist, his abiding presence since he ascended into heaven. Jesus doesn't want to keep his risen life all to himself, but through the Sacraments he wants to draw us into it as well.

Summary of the Resurrection

- Jesus did not simply return to normal biological life, as someone who would eventually have to die again.
- Jesus is not a ghost or a spirit. He's not in the realm of the dead but the realm of the living.
- His appearances are not the same as mystical experiences. Some saints have had apparitions of Mary and even Christ, but these are experiences of the soul being lifted up to the divine realm. Once this experience is over, they return to normal existence.
- When the risen Lord comes to people, it's a historical event. They might not recognise him at first, but there's no doubt he's an actual person.
- Jesus opens up a new dimension of life that affects us all, a life not affected by death or change, a new space of being in union with God.
